

Abstract

Title: Arts education as a part of prevention of drug addiction among children in kindergarten.

Objectives: The aim of this thesis is to evaluate the degree of importance of education among preschool children through art activities. This form of education can prevent potential drug addiction. Prepare and implement a short project on the theme – fairy tales and games against drug addiction. The output is a methodical list for teachers in kindergartens.

Method: Study of literature, Literature review, Compilation, Analysis, Consultations in primary prevention centre Filia, Build-up of Primary Prevention Project, its implementation, evaluation and preparation of methodological material for teachers in kindergartens.

Results: The prevention of drug addiction must begin within pre-school children. Art educations, as art, literary, dramatic, musical and dancing, form the main axis of primary prevention. Evaluation criteria are the attention, level of concentration, reaction of children and their artifacts.

Keywords: The drug, Pre-school age and its specifics, Games and Rituals in a kindergarten, Arts Education, Primary Prevention.